Panhel Council revamps sorority rushing process

□ To increase participation, the Panhellenic Council has made some changes to the "rushing" process.

By TRACY WOOD
The BG News

This weekend will be the kick off for Greek recruitment. Incoming freshman, as well as those students who are returning to the University, will be able to find out more about Greek life and the changes made to the system.

The Panhellenic Council is hoping to increase the numbers of people participating this year by making some changes. According to Jennifer Tudor, senior education major and vice president of recruitment, the biggest difference was changing the name from "rush" to "recruitment."

"Rush" had a negative stereotype and realistically we're recruiting women to join sororities and be a part of the Greek system," Tudor said.

Another change made was having recruitment begin after school begins instead of the week before. The process will also include more conversation and communication with less rules. Tudor hopes the changes will strengthen the Greek system and get more women to join and become involved in sororities.

"Being a part of a sorority offers huge opportunities, networking, sisterhood and has made my college experience more enjoyable and beneficial," Tudor said.

Jenelle Schultz, senior elementary education major and recruitment chair for a sorority, has been working closely with other chapter recruitment chairs to organize and promote Greek unity.

Recruitment chairs are responsible for providing recruitment information to their individual chapters, organizing internal recruitment activities within their chapter and keeping spirit and morale high.

Women going through the recruitment process should expect to meet a variety of people with different backgrounds and interests. According to Schultz, the recruitment process

College Station gets makeover

Patrons sit at the bar of the newly remodeled College Station.

□ The bar has been cooking up renovations and opens today to show off its renovations.

By TRACY WOOD
The BG News

The College Station has been catering to students and the community since 1982, and will reopen today with a whole new look and atmosphere.

The old College Station might be remembered as dark and dingy. However, the new southwestern color scheme brightens up the once-gloomy atmosphere.

"College Station is one of the only bars in town that caters to both students and surrounding community members," said Dave Meeks, owner of the bar.

Meeks said the College Station has not opened yet this school year because of extensive remodeling. Meeks said he had been happy with business in the past, but felt it was time for a change.

The remodeled bar will be split up into two main areas. One area will concentrate on a sports theme with a big screen TV, in addition to the six other television sets throughout the bar. The extended bar increases the number of seats available and has a water panel behind the bar to add visual effects.

The other side of the bar will provide entertainment, with a variety of music, new lights and a dance floor surrounded with mirrors.

The bar will also be serving food for the first time since College Station has been open. Food will be offered until 10 p.m. and will be prepared by a greaseless fryer. The food will be reduced fat and will consist of a variety of finger foods such as hot dogs, wings and hamburgers.

The bar will also be available to any organizations who would like to make reservations in advance to have a party or raise money for charity. Meeks encourages any local organization to use the facility to raise money for a charitable event.

Brooke Curren, senior theater major, has held many functions in the past at College Station for her sorority and plans to hold more in the future.

"College Station has always been a fun place to sponsor sorority events; they've been very cooperative and the new atmosphere would be another incentive to plan events there," said Curren.

There will continue to be daily specials and happy hours every night until 9 p.m. The first few days the bar is open will be ladies' night. College Station welcomes everyone who is eighteen and over.

College Station is located at 1616 East Wooster in the Greenwood Centre. The location of the bar should not discourage people from checking out changes made from the previous year. Meeks would encourage students and people in the community to see the new atmosphere.

"College Station is the best reason not to go downtown," Meeks said.

Campus

Organization focuses on self-concept

□ Improving self-image and giving women a place to turn is the focus of the new campus group Turning Points.

By CAROLYN STECKEL
The BG News

Women on campus now have a place to turn when they experience problems with their self-image.

Turning Points is a group that assists women in the early stages of eating disorders or those who have overly excessive concerns about weight and appearance.

According to Elayne Jacoby, a nurse practitioner and co-facilitator of Turning Points, the group is not to be considered therapy.

"It is an informal educational discussion on weight, shape and normal eating," Jacoby said.

The program will be presented in a seven part video series. Each video is 16 to 22 minutes long.

Topics of the videos include the purpose of the group and its goals, societal expectations, the reason diets do not work and why they are dangerous, normal eating, coping strategies and how to maintain healthy behaviors.

"The groups are made up of 10 to 15 people and there are three co-facilitators," Jacoby said. "Also, everything remains totally confidential."

According to Diane Tinsman, a counselor at the Counseling Center and co-facilitator, the purpose of having three co-facilitators is to get different points of views.

"We each have our own area of specialty," she said.

The other co-facilitator of the group is Tonya Hefner. She is a registered and licensed dietitian, and a nutrition educator at the University.

"Though I attend every session, there are two sessions that focus on food and nutrition so I will be dealing with those the most," Hefner said.

This is the third semester that the group will be meeting, but this will be Hefner's first experience with the group.

"I'm excited," she said. "I'm not sure what I'm looking forward to since it is my first group, but I hope the students find it helpful and beneficial."

According to Jacoby, the group is most helpful in that the students will be hearing from others who share their concerns as well.

"It will help students recognize that you can eat healthy and be happy and use your energy to focus on other goals," she said.

Jacoby also said that there is tremendous need for this type of group.

Education Abroad Programs offer taste of culture

□ The University's Study Abroad Programs give students a chance to learn another culture while being in school.

By IVY CHIN
The BG News

In this interconnecting world, understanding another culture and having the experience of living abroad can increase employment and self-enhancement.

Education Abroad Programs, formally known as Study Abroad Programs, allow University students the opportunity to participate in a variety of programs and discover the world while they are at school.

Students can choose to spend a year, a semester, or a summer session abroad in one of 19 countries.

Sally Raymont, director of Education Abroad Programs, encourages students to come to the informational sessions and explore the programs that are available.

"Any student can study abroad; however, students should plan early, preferably a whole year in advance," Raymont said.

Raymont recommends applying early to study abroad. She said students will have more time to look for additional financial aid and will have more country options.

Students also have to arrange their schedules in order to avoid spending extra time in school after participating in the program.

Raymont also said that some students have the wrong perception that study abroad is costly. She said it is not much more expensive, but it does depend on where the students study.

The program also helps students deal with financial aid applications and budget issues. International education committees will select those eligible students for the financial aid that is available. Travel grant money is also available for undergraduate students to study abroad.

Before the students leave for their designated country, a pre-departure orientation will be held for them. A re-entry session will be held for returnees to share their experiences and tell their feelings about coming back to the United States and Bowling Green to other students.

Real education begins with balance

My father teaches middle school in a rural Georgia town. He is often physically threatened by his students because he makes them work. Now, my father is a former Master Sergeant in the Marine Corps, so he demands discipline in his class. But can there be any education whatsoever where students have no respect for the teacher?

My freshman year at BG, I took a philosophy course. I worked hard in this class, and when I went to the teacher with questions, I was treated with no respect and my problems were never addressed inside or out of class. If I'm paying money to sit in class and be taught, then my teacher will address my questions, or they will address a refund check to me! Can there be any education at all when the teacher doesn't respect the student?

From kindergarten to 12th grade, we spent roughly 14,000 hours in school preparing to become responsible citizens. We were taught lies like: Columbus discovered America in 1492. We were shielded from uncomfortable domestic facts. For example, over 20 million Native Americans were slaughtered in a holocaust provoked by the American policy of Manifest Destiny. How many hours were spent teaching us about important things like: how to manage finances, how to have a relationship that doesn't eventually fall apart, how to participate in a capitalistic system instead of becoming a proletariat doomed to dwell in a working class cage?

Education today is based upon seeking security in specialization. Instead of a holistic understanding of the world, students are doomed to specialize in (for example) the geologic evolution of a certain type of rock strata in Mexico rather than a well-rounded and integrated thinker. Specialization is strangling education. Can the specialist become an integrated human being? Only when they cease to be a specialist!

Conventional education is producing mediocrity in the human mind. We are acquiring knowledge and technique, but as a whole we are becoming exponentially more ignorant. Conventional education is not concerned with independent thought or intelligence. I postulate that it is antagonistic to integrated thinking. The function of education is to bring about integrated individuals; people that are in touch with their own feelings and the feelings of others around them; people aware of their environment and their place in it.

True education cultivates an integrated relationship with life. It awakens self-awareness. Self-awareness is understanding the entire psychological movement of one's own mind.

Awareness is understanding where thought ends and has no further validity. Obviously thought is important in acquiring knowledge and learning certain techniques. But in human relationships thought only separates and divides people through images. Understanding where thought becomes detrimental to life is the beginning of awareness, education and intelligence.

Self-awareness is a creative state of mind and it is the first and only step toward complete freedom.

Conventional education is not concerned with true freedom. It only wants to mechanize the mind through formulae and patterns. But intelligence is not a pattern, and it cannot be measured. Intelligence is a state of mental freedom and it's free flowing and creative. It doesn't belong to any person and it can't be found in any book. I can't give you freedom any more than some 2,000-year-old icon or a group of people who stockpile guns and talk about god.

If you don't believe me, try telling a philosophy Ph.D. that thought is limited. Try telling someone whose entire life is based upon the worship of thought and words, that there is a point where it all completely comes to an end. Ask them about the space between two thoughts. You'll be laughed out of class the same way I was! When that happened I caught an aroma of the truth that if you can't connect the concepts of every class you're taking at this university, then you don't need to be in college! Don't just sit in class and collect words that you'll regurgitate mindlessly in papers. Stand up and think!

The world doesn't need ideals, slogans and buzzwords. We don't need second comings and faith healings. We need intelligent, integrated thinkers who are free of fear, free of images, free from nationalistic and religious propaganda.

It is only when we are completely free from all of these things, and the web of tradition, that we will understand what compassion really is.

The integrated individual approaches their education with compassion and intelligence. The truly educated individual holds both, because they are inseparable.

Make no mistake about it, without compassion and intelligence, no human conflict will ever be solved by petty social reform. Without a radical change in our educational approach as students, teachers, citizens and individuals, we only contribute to the holocaust of our own species.

Thinness deceptively portrays health

"The Real Weight Loss Solution—Try This New 10-Step Plan"

"10 Easy Ways to Improve Your Diet"

"You Can Learn to Love Exercise"

"Slim down Dinner Tonight!"

Hello!? Are these headlines appealing to all of you males out there?

Are you interested in "slimming down your dinner tonight?" I didn't think so. More or less, these are some headlines printed on the covers of three different issues of the same magazine. Does it mean anything that the name of this magazine is "Health," not "Solutions to Every Woman's Weight Problems?" This is a very unbiased title for a magazine. "Health," shouldn't it appeal to males and females, right? However, all three of these issues display pictures of young, healthy-looking, thin women.

Now guys, if you saw this magazine lying on a table in an office of some sort, would you pick it up? Keep in mind that the cover shows a picture of a young woman jogging through a park, surrounded by headlines concerning weight loss. Or would you rather pick up the copy of "Rolling Stone" lying beside it? I can take a pretty good guess that you would not pick up a magazine that appears to be about women and weight loss, but please correct me if I'm wrong.

The title of this magazine is "Health." I believe I read it correctly. My point is that this unbiased/unsexist title is ironically directed at women only, as if women are the only ones who should be worried about their health, specifically their weight.

Why is society so focused on the weight loss of women? We women can definitely agree that almost every magazine we pick up (directed toward females) will include something about losing weight.

Even my little sister's "Teen" magazine, directed at girls ages 13 and up, includes special dieting solutions. As if a 13-year-old girl needs to worry about her weight.

From the time we are very young, society teaches us that thin is beautiful. And if we don't measure up to the ideal body image, then that makes us "less."

An ideal is like a stereotype. It is a "picture in our heads"—resistant to change, frequently inconsistent, has many limits, and is almost always based on false information. The "ideal" contains only characteristics that society holds desirable. Its purpose is comparable to a standard or a goal.

Ideals often times, seem innocent. For example, a photograph of a thin woman on the cover of "Health" magazine portrays healthy, right?

Maybe she is healthy, but women who are larger than the cover model may be healthy also. Why don't they show a picture of a woman of 5' and 140 lbs. jogging through a park? Just because women don't weigh 105 lbs. at 5'9", doesn't mean we are unhealthy.

We all have different genes and body structures, yet we are all pressured to stay under a certain weight limit in order to be accepted by society. How does anyone else know what our bodies need or require?

My only advice to myself and every other female is to accept yourself internally as well as externally. Love who you are as an individual and others will love you the same. Set your own goals and strive to measure up to your own standards.

And please don't starve yourself or begin/continue vomiting to try to measure up to society's ideal female body, because in reality it doesn't exist.

"Life is a dream—the only thing real is you."

Dear BG News:

Sometimes when I drink too much alcohol I black out. Why does this occur?

Concerned, Founders
Dear Concerned:

When you drink alcohol it goes to the stomach and small intestine, and then enters the bloodstream. Once there, alcohol goes to every organ in the body including the brain.

If a person drinks too much, the increased level of alcohol in the brain gets in the way of his or her ability to process information and store memories. A blackout is a serious sign of the misuses of alcohol.

Dear BG News:

Is vaginal discharge normal?
Anonymous

Dear Anonymous:

It is normal for women to experience vaginal discharge. The color and consistency of the discharge changes normally throughout the menstrual cycle. At times the discharge may be clear and stringy particularly at the time of ovulation.

At other times during the month the discharge may become white and tacky. If you experience discharge that is different from what you normally experience or have an unusual odor or itching and irritation contact the Student Health Service for an appointment to see a nurse practitioner for an exam to check for vaginal infection.

Dear BG News:

At what point am I legally drunk?
Anonymous

Dear Anonymous:

According to the laws of the State of Ohio, if you are 21 you are legally drunk and can be charged with a DUI if your blood alcohol level is .10. If you are under 21, you may be charged with a DUI with a blood alcohol level of .02.

Dear BG News:

How much calcium do I need, and where can I get it if I don't drink milk?
Milk-less in Mac

Dear Milk-less in Mac:

The RDA for Calcium was just increased to 1,300mg for 9-18 year olds and 1,000mg for 19-50 year olds. Although milk is one of the best sources, there are other ways you can get your calcium. Both yogurt and cheese are excellent sources, in addition to certain brands of tofu and calcium fortified soy milk. It is also possible to get smaller amounts of calcium from leafy-green vegetables and grain products.

Americans react to Starr's extensive investigation

□ Majority of Americans believe Clinton should remain in office.

The Associated Press

"We have a lot of other things to worry about," said a health care aide on a street in Columbus, Ohio. "They're wasting people's money," said a man on a coffee break in Des Moines.

Without waiting to see what prosecutor Kenneth Starr had delivered to Congress, many people on America's street corners Thursday had little appetite for the national ordeal that an impeachment might represent.

Not everyone, though. "I think he needs to be held accountable like everyone else," said Chris Stanley, 36, a carpet cleaner in St. Paul, Minn. "I just don't get how some people think it doesn't matter that he's pulling this kind of stuff in our Oval Office," said rancher B. R. Carter.

People's conversations with Associated Press reporters across the country gave some hints about the nation's mood as the House moved toward deciding whether to open a presidential impeachment inquiry for only the second time this century.

"I think he should be impeached, not only for lying but because he was unfaithful in general," said Taiya Schoff, 25, a waitress from Rensselaer, N.Y., who was getting married on Friday and who once voted for Clinton. Earl Allen, a real estate developer in Minot, N.D., said the country had known of Clinton's sexual behavior since 1992 "and it's taken us six years to get to the bottom of it."

"A total embarrassment" for the country, said Boston carpenter George Morganelli, 37.

Capitol Hill police officers help to deliver boxes of documents pertaining President Clinton from independent counsel Kenneth Starr.

Bernadette Luckett, 45, the home health care aide who expressed that view in Columbus, Ohio, ticked off matters she thought more important: the economy, taxes, social concerns.

Impeaching the president "wouldn't be good for the country," said Patrick Monaghan, 31, a cable television installer from Annapolis, Md. "We have enough problems as it is."

"His sexual life really has nothing to do with running the country," said Stephine Hill, 37, who works in a Wendy's in downtown Columbus. "He didn't lie about anything that has to do with the United States."

And in Richmond, Va., delivery man Larry Smith said, "What he done, he didn't do anything to hurt the country."

"At least he tries to get people employed," said Crystal Lewis, 26, a brokerage house receptionist in Chicago.

BABY SWITCH

DNA results confirm ID of switched baby's father

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — The ex-boyfriend of a woman whose child support case led to the discovery that her baby was switched at birth is the father of the girl sent home with another family, tests have confirmed.

There is a 99.9 percent chance that Carlton Conley is Rebecca Grace Chittum's biological father, according to DNA test results released Wednesday.

A test last month confirmed that Rebecca's biological mother is Conley's ex-girlfriend, Paula Johnson, who has raised the other girl involved in the switch, Callie Marie Conley.

Last week, another test proved that Callie is the biological daughter of Kevin Chittum and Whitney Rogers, both of whom died in a car crash July 4.

The two girls were born about 16 hours apart at the University of Virginia Medical Center in June 1995. Hospital officials believe they were switched shortly before the respective parents took their babies home.

Rebecca is being raised by the parents of the dead couple, Tommy and Brenda Rogers and Kevin Chittum's mother, Rosa Lee Chittum.

All the families have said they want the girls to remain with the families who have raised them and allow liberal visitation.

PRISON ESCAPE

New York prisoner dead after chase

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — An escaped prisoner from New York shot and killed himself Wednesday after a police chase on the Ohio turnpike, the State Highway Patrol said.

John Anderson, who was wanted after escaping from a state prison in Syracuse, N.Y., was found in his car with a gunshot wound to the head, said Lt. John Born. He said troopers didn't fire any shots during the chase.

Anderson was spotted sleeping in a stolen car at a turnpike service plaza early in the morning, Born said. The suspect saw the approaching troopers and fled in his car.

He led them on a 25-mile chase before being slowed down by tire-deflating devices put on the road. He then got off the interstate and pulled to the side of State Route 4.

By the time troopers reached his car, he had shot himself, Born said.

Anderson, 26, had been serving time for felony burglary.

TRAIN ACCIDENT

Boy killed by train after lying on tracks

CARLISLE, Ohio (AP) — A 15-year-old boy who was lying on railroad tracks was killed by a train.

According to a preliminary investigation Tuesday, Gary Michael Duncan and a friend were lying on the tracks about 4:30 a.m. Sunday near Duncan's home in this village 20 miles southwest of Dayton.

The friend, whom police have declined to identify, was able to jump up and out of the way of the train. But Duncan did not, although the engineer reported blowing his horn when he realized that what he initially thought was debris on the tracks was a body.

"Although I believe he was sleeping, I can't confirm there wasn't some other reason," said Franklin police Capt. Gerry Massey, who is directing the investigation.

Investigators were awaiting a report from the Montgomery County coroner's office.

Police say Duncan had attended a festival in nearby Franklin the night before but had left about 11:20 p.m. Neither police nor family members could explain why Duncan and his friend decided to lie down on the tracks.

DISASTER IN ITALY

Earthquake shakes Italy, killing at least 1

ROME (AP) — An earthquake shook the mountain towns of southern Italy on Wednesday, killing one person, injuring dozens and shaking buildings to the point of collapse.

Panicked residents fled into the streets in towns close to the quake's epicenter, 210 miles southeast of Rome. Italy's National Institute of Seismology put the preliminary magnitude at 5.5; the U.S. Geological Survey in Colorado said it was 5.2.

The quake hit at midday, striking hardest between the towns of Castelluccio Inferiore and Laino Borgo, where the regions of Calabria and Basilicata meet.

A 24-year-old Italian tried to reach safety by parking his car and fleeing on foot, but was killed by rocks tumbling loose from a cliff.

A dozen people were hospitalized, including a woman who broke her arm as she fled her home. The others were being treated for cuts from falling plaster or for shock.

Authorities said dozens of buildings were damaged and some appeared on the brink of collapse. Fearing more damage, many families were planning to spend the night outdoors.

BAD DOUGH

Pillsbury recalls cookie dough

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Pillsbury Co. has recalled several thousand cases of its refrigerated chocolate chip cookie dough after discovering the product may contain walnuts not listed on the package.

The recall was launched after it was discovered that 8,824 cases of the company's walnut cookie dough were mislabeled as Pillsbury Chocolate Chip Cookies, which does not bear a walnut ingredient.

Some people have an allergy to walnuts that can be fatal. No illnesses have been reported, the company said Tuesday.

Only 18 oz. refrigerated dough packages of Pillsbury Chocolate Chip Cookies bearing the stamps "For Best Results Use Before Nov. 18 J" and "For Best Results Use Before Nov. 18 K" were recalled. The date is printed on the side seam of the package.

Students drink just to get drunk

□ The number of students who drink more than three times a month jumped by 22 percent.

The Associated Press

BOSTON — More than half the nation's college students who drank did so to get drunk last year, but the number of binge drinkers was virtually unchanged from four years ago, according to research released today.

The survey of 14,521 students by the Harvard School of Public Health followed up on an analysis of 15,103 students in 1993. Both surveys queried students randomly at 130 colleges across the country.

The report published in this month's issue of the Journal of American College Health shows that more students who consumed alcohol did so to get drunk — 39 percent in 1993 compared with 52 percent in 1997.

The number of students who were drunk three or more times in the month prior to answering the survey jumped by 22 percent.

In both reports, fraternity and sorority members were the biggest alcohol guzzlers. Four out of five of these students qualified as "binge" drinkers — defined as five drinks in a row for men and four drinks in a row for women.

"I think fraternities are so mired in alcohol, they're so into it that they can't give it up," said

Henry Wechsler, who headed both studies.

Overall, 42.7 percent of students surveyed were considered binge drinkers in 1997, a slight decrease from the 44.1 percent in 1993. Wechsler said the drop is attributed mostly to an increase in students who do not drink at all.

Nineteen percent of students surveyed said they hadn't touched a drink in a year, up from 15.6 percent in the earlier study.

Sen. John Glenn, D-Oh, held a news conference, Thursday. He is joining the National Institute on Aging, NASA and the Public Health Services Office on Women's Health to talk about exercise and fitness. Glenn is part of a public service announcement, promoting a 100 page exercise guide.

Oldest astronaut promotes exercise

□ Glenn advises no expensive equipment is needed to be fit.

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The government wants to take advantage of John Glenn's status as the oldest astronaut — and fitness at age 77 — to motivate more Americans to get moving.

"If you can only walk around the room or up and down the halls of the building or around the block once, do it," Glenn said Thursday as he helped three government agencies begin a campaign to motivate the over-50 set to exercise.

Glenn, also a Democratic senator from Ohio, is featured in a television public service announcement and contributed the opening comments for a 100-page exercise guide developed by the National Institute on Aging.

The free book tries to show older Americans why they ought to exercise and how they can do it without employing anything more than a chair, towel or wall.

"You don't need equipment or a lot of expensive stuff," said Glenn, who lifts weights and takes brisk daily walks.

NIA Director Richard Hodes, M.D., said the book was developed in part because senior citizens were asking what exercises they could safely do at any age.

He said the guide incorporates all the available scientific research into the aging process and how stretching and muscle-building can improve overall health.

Northwest Airlines and pilots meet to discuss resuming flights despite ongoing strikes.

The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Northwest Airlines and its striking pilots are still at odds, though two feeder airlines planned to resume flights to 17 smaller cities and towns left without air service by the walk-out.

Northwest and the pilots met with a federal mediator and presidential aide Bruce Lindsey on Wednesday, the 12th day of the strike. Neither side reported any progress in the talks, which have been stalled on issues of pay and job security.

The strike by the 6,100 pilots began

Aug. 28 and is the longest against an airline since 1989, when a machinists' strike led to the collapse of Eastern Airlines. Northwest has laid off about 28,300 non-striking employees since the strike began.

The Department of Transportation, meanwhile, said it had filed suit against one of the feeder carriers, Mesaba Airlines, to make sure it resumes service to more than a dozen markets from Minneapolis and Detroit. It also sued Northwest, seeking a court order to ensure ground services for the smaller airlines.

The agency gave Northwest's other feeder carrier, Express Airlines I, until tonight to develop a plan to serve five markets from Memphis, Tenn., said Phil Reed, vice president of marketing for Express.

It was unclear when the smaller airlines would actually resume service to the towns in 11 Midwestern and Southern states.

Northwest said its support operations, including reservations and ground handling, could only be provided on a day-to-day basis to the feeder airlines during the strike.

"It's not like walking into a room and flicking a switch," Northwest said in a statement.

Northwest has canceled all domestic flights through Saturday and all European and Asian flights through Monday. It said it had found alternative transportation for slightly more than half of the 1 million passengers booked for travel through Friday.

Newark, N.J.-based Kiwi International Air Lines announced Wednesday it would begin service to the Minneapolis market this weekend.

Trial begins in Jordan breach-of-contract suit

Trial starts in movie breach-of-contract suit against Michael Jordan.

The Associated Press

CHICAGO — A towering figure in an impeccably tailored gray suit rose from the defense table in a crowded downtown courtroom Thursday, and with a sheepish grin told prospective jurors seated 10 feet away, "I'm Michael Jordan."

That obvious declaration spelled out the challenge facing attorneys handling a multimillion-dollar breach-of-contract lawsuit against the Bulls superstar, alleging he reneged on a deal to star in an obscure 1991 basketball film that flopped without him.

Finding 12 people with impartial feelings toward the biggest sports hero in Chicago history and arguably the greatest basketball star of all time "will be an interesting challenge," plaintiffs' attorney Dean Dickie said before entering the courtroom.

The 1993 lawsuit accuses Jordan of backing out of the Chicago-made film, "Heaven is a Playground" after signing a 1988 contract guaranteeing him $350,000 plus 5 percent of the film's profits.

Jordan was paid $50,000 up front but returned the money and filed a counterclaim alleging that the producers lied when they told him they had obtained financing in the summer of 1989, when filming was supposed to have begun.

Jordan and his agent, David Falk, who also is named as a defendant, also claim the contract was not legally binding.

The lawsuit seeks between $16 million and $20 million in damages, or roughly what the producers think amounts to lost earnings.

Jordan was to have portrayed a playground basketball star who loses, then regains, his love of the game.

The film ultimately was made with former Loyola Marymount player Bo Kimble.

"Doesn't have the same ring, does it?" Dickie said.

The production company, Heaven Corp., says it lost financing when Jordan reneged, and the film, failing to get national distribution, never made a profit.

Jordan attended jury selection accompanied by his wife, Juanita, and planned to be in court throughout the trial because "he doesn't run away from things," said Jordan's attorney, Fred Sperling.

AIDS research shows cell death

New research shows how HIV suddenly erupts, increases cell death

The Associated Press

Molecular biologists may have discovered how AIDS suddenly can erupt into a catastrophic illness after lurking for years as a low-grade infection.

New research by a nationwide team of scientists suggests that the human immunodeficiency virus eventually attacks a class of disease-fighting cells produced by the immune system that were thought to be impervious to attack by the virus.

The results, which have been limited so far to test-tube experiments, could provide drug makers with a new target for drugs designed to keep the virus in check, as well as vaccines aimed at preventing infection.

Researchers said the attack on this different group of immune cells, known as CD8 T cells, triggers an explosion of cell death that exhausts the immune system and leaves the body vulnerable to pneumonia and other secondary infections that typically kill most AIDS patients.

The new study was published in the latest issue of the journal Nature.

Exactly how AIDS affects the CD8 cells remains unclear, though.

Researchers said one possibility is that the virus reduces the immune system's "social control" over its own powerful cells. The disruption to this precise chemical balance triggers a potentially fatal domino effect that not only leaves the body vulnerable to infection, but also may contribute to the loss of brain cells that causes AIDS-related dementia and other debilitating side effects.

"Because CD8 T cells are professional killers, they may do serious harm if they end up in the wrong place," said French AIDS researcher Jean Claude Ameisen of the Hospital Bichat in Paris.

For several years, scientists have known that HIV readily infects one type of immune cell known as the CD4, or helper T cell, by locking onto a protein on its surface and breaching its cell wall.

The CD8 cells were thought to have better protection. Yet in the latter stages of AIDS, CD8 cells start dwindling rapidly, too.

Researchers said their experiments show that a strain of HIV that usually evolves late in the course of infection latches onto a particular surface protein of the CD8 cell known as CXCR4.

Unlike in CD4 cells, the virus does not actually take over its cellular machinery.

Instead, they report, when the virus latches onto the CXCR4 protein the CD8 cell sees the change as a kind of a death signal and commits suicide.

The cell death process is complex, and quickly involves an array of other cell types that soon may subvert the entire immune system and lead to full-blown AIDS symptoms, said lead author Georges Herbein of the Picower Institute for Medical Research in Manhasset, N.Y.

Keiko takes a leap towards freedom

□ "Free Willy" killer whale makes a new home in a sea pen off Oregon coast.

The Associated Press

NEWPORT, Ore. — Keiko the killer whale is one step closer to truly being free.

The 9,050-pound, droopy-finned star of the "Free Willy" movies was being flown by airplane to Iceland early today. After 19 years in captivity, he was to be released in a sea pen, a sort of halfway house to reacquaint him with the waters where he was captured at age 2. The goal is to set him free — if handlers think he's ready.

True to his training, Keiko swam into a holding tank at the Oregon Coast Aquarium on Wednesday, shimmied into a nylon stretcher and calmly chirped as he was hoisted out of his home for the past 21 1/2 years.

Hundreds of people, some with signs reading "Keiko, we love you" and "We will miss you," lined the highway as a truck carried the whale on a slow, three-mile procession to the airport where a huge Air Force C-17 transport roared down the runway for the eight-hour flight.

"I'm going to miss Keiko," said 9-year-old Emily May, a junior beauty pageant queen who wore her crown and lacy white dress in honor of the whale's departure. "He's really a cool whale."

"A part of me feels sad," said 9-year-old Kasey Lindsay, who wore a Keiko T-shirt and sipped Keiko root beer outside the aquarium. "But then I'm glad he is leaving so he can be with his family."

Keiko will live in the football field-sized pen near the rugged Westmann Islands until his handlers determine he is able to live on his own in the wild.

Keiko's bid for freedom has its roots in Hollywood and the hopes of children around the world.

In the 1993 box-office hit "Free Willy," about an orca threatened by a villainous amusement park owner, the whale played by Keiko leaps over a harbor break-wall to freedom in the open ocean.

Real life wasn't so tidy. It was learned that Keiko was languishing and deteriorating in a cramped tank at a Mexico City amusement park and had no prospects of getting out.

"Going through recruitment is a great way to get your foot in the door at Bowling Green, because you meet so many people either through joining a particular house or just by going Jennifer Kayackas, senior sport management major and philanthropy chair for the Panhellenic Council, also encourages anyone to be a part of Greek life. By being a part of the Greek system, Kayackas has had the opportunity to meet many people, have fun and gain leadership abilities.

"Being a part of the Greek sys-

The recruitment process for fraternities will also take place next week. Keith Wright, junior interpersonal communications major and a fraternity recruit-

PRINCIPLES of SOUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

RECENTLY,
MORNINGSTAR CALLED US CHEAP.
IT'S NOT EVERY DAY
YOU GET A COMPLIMENT
LIKE THAT.

All financial companies charge operating fees and expenses—some more than others. Of course, the lower the expenses you pay, the better. That way, more of your money goes where it should—towards building a comfortable future.

We make low expenses a top priority.

As the largest retirement system in the world—a nonprofit company focused exclusively on the financial needs of the educational and research communities—our expenses are among the lowest in the insurance and mutual fund industries.

In fact, TIAA-CREF's 0.31% average fund expenses are less than half of the expense charges of comparable funds. It's why Morningstar—one of the nation's leading sources of annuity and mutual fund information—says, "At that level [TIAA-CREF] is cheaper than any other [variable annuity] policy, and is even competitive with the cheapest mutual fund complexes, though it offers far more benefits."

"TIAA-CREF sets the standard in the financial services industry."

Of course, expenses are only one factor to consider when you make an investment decision. Morningstar also noted our commitment to "consumer education, service" and "solid investment performance." Because that can make a difference in the long run, too.

At TIAA-CREF, we believe people would like to spend more in retirement, not on their retirement company. Today, over two million people count on that approach to help them build a comfortable and secure future. So can you. To find out more, call us at 1 800 842-2776. We'd consider it a compliment.

Bowling Green will hit the road in attempt to fend off two teams that will try to take the award the Falcons have held on to the past three seasons.

The Doc Nichols award, one of the many awards the Falcons have won over the years, goes to the top men's soccer team in Ohio.

The Falcons (2-1 overall) battle the Dayton Flyers today at 7 p.m. and Ohio State Sunday at 3 p.m.

The Flyers' coach is Jim Laudner. In 17 years, he is 207-91-36 overall. They are 1-2 overall defeating Ohio State 1-0 before losing two this past weekend (2-1 at Eastern Illinois and 1-0 at Oakland University).

The Flyers came into Cochrane Field last year and handed BG a 1-0 defeat. BG has a 14-7-0 lifetime record against Dayton.

"Dayton's a good team," Falcon coach Mel Mahler said. "A lot of the same players are back.

Dayton's on the uprise and so is Ohio State. They'll be motivated to play. There's a lot on the line. Playing them on the road is going to be a big challenge for us."

Following the Friday contest, BG returns to the new Ohio State soccer field just south of Ohio Stadium (The Horseshoe). The Falcons will face a Buckeye team that is 1-1-1 heading into Friday's contest at Butler.

In the last meeting in 1996 at Cochrane Field, the Falcons handed OSU a 3-0 defeat. They are 23-6-1 all-time against the Buckeyes.

"We had a very good match against them in the spring," BG senior midfielder Nick Kollinatis said about OSU. "There will be a lot of physical play. It should be a very good game."

Ohio State coach John Bleum is 98-35-15 in Columbus. He has the ninth highest winning percentage among active coaches (.717 — 97-34-14).

Besides the Buckeyes, playing on the new field will be a challenge for BG. However, coming off of a 1-1 stint in the Nike Ohio State Classic last weekend will help the Falcons prepare for the battle.

"It's a shame," Mahler said of the field. "It's certainly a below-standard Division I soccer field. But both teams are going to play on it. They have a little bit more luxury of playing on it and getting used to the odd bounces."

There's no doubt that BG needs to score more goals. In their first three games, the Falcons have scored a mere three goals for a goal per game average.

"We've changed the lineup to make ball possession better," said BG junior back Kevin Jackson. "Hopefully, we'll play better as a team."

BG is looking for better ball possession in what the team calls the attacking third of the field near the opponent's goal. Better ball possession will lead to more scoring chances.

"We're not doing that well right now," BG junior fielder Bobby Biggs said after the Falcons' 1-0 win against Evansville Sunday in the OSU Classic. "Plus, we need a little luck. We're not getting that either."

In the National Soccer Collegiate Athletic Association Great Lakes Region Rankings released Sept. 7, BG is rated fourth with 34 points behind Indiana (50 points), Notre Dame (41) and Akron (35). Ohio State ranks seventh (15) while Dayton is tied for eighth (10).

Teams look to improve on links

□ Consistency will be the key to competing in invitationals.

The Bowling Green women's golf team hopes to go to East Lansing this weekend and improve upon a good start. Last week, the Falcons finished 10th out of 17 teams in the Redbird Classic at Illinois State University.

This week, they participate in the Mary Fossum Invitational, hosted by Michigan State.

"It will be good to go there and compete against a strong field of teams," said coach Kurt Thomas. "Hopefully, we can use this weekend to work on problems in our game."

Thomas hopes that the team will improve upon their consistency in play.

"We were really happy about the way we played Saturday. We walked off the course in seventh place," said Thomas. "But on Sunday, we just tried to make everything perfect and we slipped a little."

The Falcons collectively shot a 339 on Sunday, up 13 strokes from a 323 on Saturday.

"We definitely need to be more consistent in our game," said junior Shannon Sharp. "We hope to improve on that this weekend."

Thomas also noted that there is room for improvement in the Falcon's short game.

"We definitely need to get better around the greens," he said. "If we can make progress in correcting our mistakes, it will be a successful weekend."

Falcons hang tough

If you think the Bowling Green football team is down after getting shutout by Missouri, think twice.

The Falcons (0-1 overall, 0-0 Mid-American Conference) are using their three non-conference games as practices in preparation for conference play. And for the second-straight week, BG plays a national-caliber team - Penn State.

"There's no letdown," senior wide receiver Leon Weathersby said. "Missouri, Penn State and Central Florida are scrimmage games and are getting us ready to play in our conference."

The Nithany Lions (1-0) are coming off an impressive win over Southern Mississippi. Both USA Today coaches and AP polls have the Lions as the ninth-best team in the nation.

As well as national title hopes, Penn State also has an added incentive to beat the Falcons Saturday at Happy Valley. Legendary Penn State coach Joe Paterno is going for his 300th win.

BG is well versed in century-mark wins for Paterno. The coach earned his 200th win against the Falcons in 1987. Paterno said he hopes his accomplishments don't overshadow what the team is trying to accomplish - to win the game.

And though Missouri battered the Falcons, Penn State remains cautious of the team.

"Now, you've got to be careful with Missouri," Paterno said. "They look strong and well organized, but you can't judge anything by one game."

BG is hoping these non-conference games will 'season' younger players for the important MAC games. Some of the toughest battles for the Falcons Saturday will be on the line.

The Falcons are undersized, as compared to the Penn State offensive and defensive lines. BG's offensive line averages around 290 pounds, while the Penn State short guard weighs 313.

And the BG offense is hoping to get more chances than it did at Missouri.

BG quarterback Bob Niemet completed only two passes on eight attempts.

"I think both of our quarterbacks need to execute better in the passing game," Blackney said. "Our receivers can run better routes. There were a couple of balls that they could have caught."

The Falcons are going to keep putting younger players in the game in order to get them experience.

One of the players, freshman punt returner Robert Red, may get an opportunity of offense, as well as punt returning.

"That's our goal, to get him more involved in the offense as the weeks go by," Blackney said. "We want to make sure that we move him along as his pace."

Knees and elbows were hitting the floor as much as feet were—this was the scene at practice for the Bowling Green volleyball team.

"Believe me, it's going to be a barn-burner," coach Denise Van De Walle said during a drill at Wednesday's practice.

The Falcons have been working hard in preparation for the upcoming All-Sport Classic in Ann Arbor, Mich. this weekend. BG will battle three opponents: Louisiana State, Michigan and North Carolina. These bigger schools should pose a challenge because they tend to recruit the bigger, stronger players who were among the top 50 high school stars in the country.

"All three teams are probably going to be bigger than us," Van De Walle said. "The first line of defense, blocking, is going to be key. We're going to have to slow balls down at the net."

Bowling Green's Lori Kemerer, who was named the Mid-American Conference defensive player of the week, will be a player to watch.

Today, BG opens the tournament against LSU. The Tigers are 5-0 this season after beating Centenary, Tulane, New Orleans, South Alabama and UNC Charlotte at their own Tiger Classic.

Last season, the Tigers went 9-21 overall and 0-15 in the Southeastern Conference. Michigan at 3-0 will face the Falcons later in the day. Michigan was 21-12 and 13-7 in the Big Ten last year. Greg Giovanazzi, in his seventh season as head coach, has led the Wolverines to victories against Maryland, Temple and Georgetown at the Georgetown Classic. Michigan is off to its best start since 1992.

The Falcons' final challenge in Ann Arbor will come from the Tar Heels of North Carolina on Saturday. The Heels were 14-17 overall in 1997. They posted a record of 6-10 in Atlantic Coast Conference play.

Coach Joe Sagula has UNC off to a 4-1 record with wins over Tennessee, De Paul, Texas-Arlington and East Carolina. The Tar Heels' only loss came at the hands of Iowa at the Iowa Invitational.

With a combined record of 12-1, the Falcons' three opponents this weekend pose quite a test.

"If we can serve the ball tough enough to put pressure on them, that is going to help us," Van De Walle said. "Secondly, if we can pass the ball well like we did last Sunday, we should be able to run our offense."

Martin takes over for CC, track

□ Former Drake coach brings success to the BG men's cross country and track program.

By MARK WIESE
The BG News

Men's cross-country has been running without a coach since Sid Sink stepped down last spring. Bowling Green finally found its man in Sterling Martin.

Martin brings a great deal of experience to BG. He has been coaching for the last nine seasons, with the last five being at Drake.

"I came to BG because of two factors," Martin said. "One, being the rich tradition and the other to have the opportunity to head coach."

The Falcons won the Mid-American Conference championships in 1995 and are looking to improve on last year's season. Martin will help the Falcons this year try to be a top contender for the MAC title.

Martin is a native of St. Louis, Mo. He also assisted the track teams at Drake for the last eight seasons.

Martin graduated from Drake in 1987 with a degree in education. After graduating, he served as an assistant coach at Northern Iowa and Iowa State. Martin then returned to Drake in 1990 to coach at his alma mater.

As an athlete at Drake, Martin was an All-American in 1985. He earned the honor in the 1000-meter run in an NCAA indoor meet. He also set four school records.

He earned All-Missouri Valley Conference honors twice in cross-country by finishing in the top 10 at the league meets. In 1983, Martin won the 800 meter dash to win the Missouri Valley title. As a runner and coach, Martin has experienced success. Martin is looking forward to the opportunity to coach at Bowling Green.

"I want to get Bowling Green back to where we are in serious contention to win the MAC each year," Martin said.

NBA MJ hit with lawsuit

CHICAGO (AP) — A towering figure in an impeccably tailored gray suit rose from the defense table in a crowded downtown courtroom Thursday, and with a sheepish grin told prospective jurors seated 10 feet away, "I'm Michael Jordan."

That obvious declaration spelled out the challenge facing attorneys handling a multimillion-dollar breach-of-contract lawsuit against the Bulls superstar, alleging he reneged on a deal to star in an obscure 1991 basketball film that flopped without him.

The 1993 lawsuit accuses Jordan of backing out of the Chicago-made film, "Heaven is a Playground" after signing a 1988 contract guaranteeing him $350,000 plus 5 percent of the film's profits.

MAC MAC faces big foes

On paper, this could be the biggest weekend in Mid-American Conference football history. On the field? Maybe not.

Three MAC opponents are among the top nine in the country; four are among the top 17. Toledo, picked to win the MAC in preseason balloting, travels to No. 1-ranked Ohio State. Favorite: Ohio State, by 37.

— Northern Illinois, which has the nation's longest losing skid at 19 in a row, is at No. 4 Kansas State. Favorite: K-State, by 47.

— Bowling Green hits the road to play No. 9 Penn State. Favorite: Nittany Lions, by 38.

MLB Astros beat Brewers

HOUSTON — Shane Reynolds struck out a career-high-tying 12 and also hit a two-run single as the Houston Astros beat the Milwaukee Brewers 7-1 Thursday night for their sixth straight victory.

The Astros lowered the magic number for clinching their second straight NL Central title to four. Houston also stayed in front in the race for the best record in the league, one win ahead of Atlanta and two ahead of San Diego.

CINCINNATI — Not even a dose of dog hair could get Mark McGwire a homer in Cincinnati.

McGwire tied Barry Bonds' NL record of 151 walks by drawing two more Thursday night, though his record home run total remained at 62 as the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Cincinnati Reds 8-7.

McGwire also struck out twice and popped out, leaving him without a homer in two games since breaking Roger Maris' record. It's the first time he's gone consecutive games without hitting one since Aug. 28-29.

Yankees hang on over

NEW YORK — No lead is big enough for Andy Pettitte these days. And for the New York Yankees, no lead has ever been bigger.

Paul O'Neill hit two home runs for the second straight game and the Yankees overcame another shaky outing by Pettitte for an 8-5 win over the Toronto Blue Jays on Thursday night.

With their 103rd victory, the Yankees, who clinched the AL East on Wednesday in Boston, opened a 21-game advantage over the second-place Red Sox. It's the largest lead a Yankee team has ever enjoyed at any time in a season.

The summer that wasn't

Remember that blissful, beatific time when we all thought we had the world in our grasp? That time when nothing seemed impossible, the earth revolved around our actions, and the release of "Titanic" on video was left to but a few entrepreneurial souls in midtown Manhattan?

Yes, I speak of summer 1998, when the entertainment industry all but tripped over its shoelaces trying to get us wacky consumers to buy their wares, read their offerings and see, uh, "Can't Hardly Wait."

The fact that they fell flat on their face doing so is a distinct reality. How many things that happened this summer came incredibly short of meeting the predictions of media salesmen and their ilk, righteousness-filled critics, or us, the movie-going, compact disc-buying, Dave Matthews Band T-shirt-wearing public?

For one sometimes overused example, take the sorry state of current cinema. This summer, "Godzilla" was supposed to have been the be-all and end-all, financially, of the recent wave of large-budgeted action movies. We all certainly saw enough advertising and merchandising to convince us so. But the movie made much less money, thereby shifting its fiduciary responsibilities to the consumer.

For the layman, the movie "bit the big one." Nevermind that it was a decent action movie, full of enough explosions and hubris to distract a fragile public from yet another O.J. Simpson special on E! Entertainment Television. "Out Of Sight," another good action movie, was tossed aside for the overlong, overwrought, faux adrenaline rush of "Armageddon." The list goes on, and not just for joyless critics.

Economically, the albums that were supposed to bring an already strong sales year to its apex seemed to vanish into this air. "Adore," the brilliant new album from the Smashing Pumpkins, has sold only a fraction of that band's previous album "Mellon Collie And The Infinite Sadness," which went something like googolplex-platinum. Natalie Merchant's fine solo album "Ophelia" has sold markedly less than her previous effort "Tigerlily," even though she was on tour with the wildly successful Lilith Fair.

God forbid, even Pearl Jam consented to do a video, and nobody noticed. It seems that Celine Dion will continue to carry the baton of sales into 1999. Comment dit-on "lame" en francais?

TV-wise, the "Seinfeld" finale was similarly unsuccessful, seeing that even the President of the United States admitting to anyone within earshot that he had gotten it on with

Return of the Black Swamp Arts Festival

Just as the changing leaves signal the start of fall, The Black Swamp Arts Festival signals the beginning of another semester in Bowling Green.

The Black Swamp Arts Festival is an annual event that runs for one weekend in September, with this year's dates being the 11th to the 13th. The idea for the event was based on the community's need for a cultural festival. In 1993, the idea was put into action and the first festival was held. Chris Gajewicz, Festival Chair, has been involved since the beginning.

"Our object is to get students and town residents to come together at the festival and bring both communities together," said Gajewicz, regarding the need to fuse both groups of people and create a larger community event.

The festival should do an excellent job of attracting both BG residents and University students. Gajewicz noted that the festival offers something for all ages. There will be a wide variety of things to do, eat and listen to.

As far as food goes, abundance is the word. Almost every kind of food imaginable will be available, from Cajun and Jamaican to the traditional "fair" foods. The popular Beer Garden area, for those over 21 of course, will once again be present. For those interested in the visual arts, the events will begin on Saturday at 10 a.

m. The visual arts segment of the festival is primarily centered around the Juried art show, but a Wood County Invitational has been added to this year's festival. Other visual arts areas include Acts of Art, a hands on art exhibit geared towards adults, and a Youth Art Activities area.

Another popular aspect of the festival is the musical performances that start Friday evening and continue until 5 p.m. on Sunday. There will be four stages, with the headlining acts taking place on the main stage. As in the past festivals, the musical groups are culturally diverse, with samples of Ska, Zydeco, Blues, Afro-Caribbean, Rock-n-Roll, Folk, and much more.

Whatever a person's musical preference, they are sure to find something they enjoy. More information on the musical performances can be found in the adjacent story.

The Black Swamp Arts Festival is Bowling Green's biggest annual event, and usually has attendance around 40,000. Gajewicz anticipates an even larger crowd this time around.

Arts, crafts on display at Black Swamp Fest

The traffic on Main Street this weekend will give way to a number of artists' booths as the Black Swamp Arts Festival gets under way.

Perhaps the most obvious attraction is the Juried art show which takes place down the middle of Main. Containing 75 artists, the show has a sampling of just about every kind of artwork. While visiting the booths one will find paintings, jewelry, woodwork, sculpture, ceramics and glass.

Kay Baglione, Visual Arts Chair for the festival, acknowledged there is a wide variety of everything, and an abundance of paintings.

"We will have the largest number of paintings this year than ever before at the festival," Baglione said.

All the art that is displayed is available to buy, with prices ranging from around $25 to $500. Baglione noted that this is an excellent time to find unique Christmas gifts.

The Juried artists compete for prize money, which is given to the overall best artwork. First prize is $1,000, second $500, third $250 and there will be five $75 honorable mentions.

This year is a first for the Wood County Invitational Art Show. This exhibit is located in the parking lot behind BW3's and will showcase 25

What's that I hear?

As you walk toward downtown Bowling Green this weekend, the sound of live music will grow more and more apparent. More than likely it will be coming from one of the four stages at the Black Swamp Arts Festival.

This weekend's performance schedule is jam-packed with talented bands and solo performers.

Kelly Wicks, Performing Arts Chair for the festival, has booked the musical performances for all six years of the festival. When asked how this year's main stage acts will hold up to the big names of ekoostik Hookah and Junior Brown at 1997's festival, Wicks was confident that they would pull an equally large crowd.

"The headliners are as good as any in the past, and some of the afternoon bands are just as good," said Wicks. "Lil' Brian Terry and the Zydeco Travelers should pull a different audience."

This year's main acts have made a name for themselves in the music world. The festival kicks off Friday with two rock bands, Superfast Runners and Paper Plate. At 7:45 The Delroys will get the night crowd growing with their Jamaican ska. They are the festival's first official ska band.

Two members of the Delroys, which include Darryl Thomas (lead vocals), Gary O'Brian (saxophone), Ed Needum (drums), Gerrie McManamon (keyboard) and Brian Casey (trombone), have pasts in BG. McManamon was a student at the University, and later an instructor. Thomas was a member of the Crucial DVC Band that was one of BG's most popular groups in the 80's.

Friday's headliner, Lil' Brian Terry & the Zydeco Travelers, will perform at 9:30 pm. The young band from Houston, TX, has found an eclectic mix that works. As far as traditional Zydeco goes, the Travelers play the Creole two-steps and waltzes, but with a twist. Led by 24 year-old accordionist Brian Terry, the group adds hip-hop and R&B to

NOW Sound Parade

Baxter: self-titled

1998 - Maverick

The Swedish band Baxter brings the beautiful sounds of the female voice and blends it with the pure sounds of drum 'n bass.

Nina Ramsby, Ricky Tillblad, and Carl Herlofsson have meshed Britain's electronic dance music with vocals. On their first, self-titled album for Maverick records, they produce ten breakthrough tracks which have already begun to draw some controversy among drum 'n bass purists.

The original intent of drum 'n bass dance was to let the beats stand for themselves with no vocals. Baxter is changing all of this by using Nina Ramsby's textured vocal range to bring the sound to a higher level. The ten tracks on their first album have poppy melodies that stick in your head far after the end of the record.

Until now, this is what drum 'n bass music hasn't been able to do. The beats are always fun to dance to, but they tended to blend into one long rave. Baxter might be able to push this genre into the realm of popular culture by creating tracks that can be remembered, and vocals that are sensual and moving.

Baxter's sound is similar to that of Portishead, but their lyrics are far less eerie. The first track, "Television," is a collision of pop music and drum 'n bass. On the track "Ballad of Behavior," Nina Ramsby whispers "I think that I need you/I think that I do." Her voice seems to float right with the beats of the song, and before you know it, you're listening to techno.

Some purists believe that adding vocals to the art form is an infringement on a revolution that so many have built. This may be true, but it's also adding a new dimension to the art. Baxter has taken a dance sound, kept the beats and added catchy lyrics to it. This might allow the techno bug to infest the world, an epidemic that was bound to happen sooner or later.

Baxter's self-titled album will be out on Sep. 15, and if you like Portishead, (or you've never heard of Portishead and you just want to ease yourself into the drum 'n bass world), get it. They're a band that will probably have many more albums to come, so you'll want to jump on this one before it blows up.

'Watch Me Jumpstart' spotlights Dayton band

By ROBERT SZORADY
The BG News

The Dayton-based rock band Guided By Voices has always been a bit enigmatic to their fans.

Their albums look hastily packaged, much like the music inside: one to two-minute long pop songs teeming with melodic brilliance and recorded with what sounds like two tin cans and a piece of string. That is to say, they are recorded roughly.

They were a full-fledged band years before they were first "discovered" by the independent label Scat, and they continue to record for the semi-independent Matador Records.

Largely ignored by much of the mainstream press, they have cultivated a strong underground following who will unhesitatingly plunk down money for any of the numerous albums, bootlegs, solo jaunts, and pseudonymously recorded music released by them each year.

However, many of their fans, being bedroom-dwelling misanthropes, have not had any chance to get up close and personal with this creative group of men. Now is their chance.

The video documentary Watch Me Jumpstart, directed by Arizona State University student

Banks Tarver for his thesis project, features all the people in Guided By Voices that fans have come to know and love over the years: Robert Pollard, the boisterous, boyish frontman and main songwriter, Tobin Sprout, his musical foil and bandmate, "Manager For Life" Pete Jamison, and other assorted characters from a band that has had over 30 members through the years.

The best parts of this documentary are, knowingly, the sections in which the music of Guided By Voices is displayed prominently. Whilst on stage, at rehearsal, or in a dank basement recording squalls of guitar feedback, their songwriting and performing genius shines through and makes one lament the fact that so much awful music haunts modern rock and roll radio, and so little quality music, such as the kind Guided By Voices make, is commercially taken so lightly. Their current incredible domination of college radio smacks of being nothing more than preaching to the converted.

Unfortunately, some of the more personal parts of the documentary show some of the members and ex-members to be the same kind of people you made fun of in high school: beer-swilling, pickup-truck-driving, chain-smoking, overweight middle-aged guys. An unintentionally hilarious scene in Watch Me Jumpstart recounts the best part of one member's day: when he peruses the local drive-through liquor mart.

All in all, however, Watch Me Jumpstart is a quality testament to one of the most underrated rock bands of our time, who sadly get pushed aside by bubblegum-pop angst pop bands and the kids in my dorm who cannot seem to stop blasting the new Beastie Boys album. Enough is enough, for their music, achieving a unique and modern sound.

Terry also throws rap into the mix as an attempt to introduce Zydeco to his generation. The Travelers are a four-piece band led by Terry's brother Patrick, (on guitar). Other members are Anthony "Peanut" Chenevert, on rub board, Emerson Jackson on bass and Red LeMark keeping the beat on drums.

A full day of music is in store for those attending the festival on Saturday. Various groups will be showcased on all four stages throughout the day. Street entertainers will also be around all day, walking around the festival and entertaining in various ways from music to magic.

One of the first bands to play on Saturday is Bailando Desnudo, an Afro-Caribbean band from Cincinnati. The group incorporates music from the islands of Cuba, Jamaica, Trinidad, Puerto Rico and the U.S.'s port to the Caribbean and New Orleans' Mardi Gras music. The group's main goal is to bridge the gap, using music, between countries that are geographically separated.

The band consists of Nick Radina, Brian Andres, Trey

Combs, Stan Ginn and Jim McCoy. In order to not be pinpointed as an American band or just a "salsa" band, they utilize both the Spanish and English languages and instill diversity in their rhythms and lyrics. The group has opened for Brian Setzer and played with Jimmy Buffet at Cincinnati's Parrot Head Extravaganza. The band will perform at noon on stage one.

A taste of something different is what musician/storyteller Lee Murdock offers to his audience. Murdock combines musical arrangements with stories of Great Lakes history, captivating audiences of all ages. He plays his arrangements on six and twelve-string guitars and has musical influences spanning three centuries.

Murdock's stories cover a few different topics, such as Great Lakes Ghosts, Folk Songs of the Great Lakes Region and Sea Shanty Workshops. Murdock has released an astonishing eight CDs and gives over 150 live concerts a year. He will be performing at 3 p.m. on Saturday on stage two.

Saturday night has two renowned musical acts. Opening the evenings concert is former Saturday Night Live band leader, G.E. Smith. The rock guitarist played lead guitar for the duo of Hall & Oates for six years, which garnered him much attention in the music business.

He was sought after by major recording artists, including Mick Jagger, David Bowie and Peter Wolfe, after which he went on to become musical director for Saturday Night Live. He led the SNL Band for 10 years and won an Emmy for his playing. While leading the SNL Band, Smith was able to play with dozens of talented musicians. His band will perform at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday on the main stage.

Following Smith's band is a unique act for the main stage of the festival, multi-talented artist A. J. Croce. A.J. is the son of the late Jim Croce, who was popular in the 1970's with his hits, "Bad, Bad Leroy Brown," "I Got a Name" and "You Don't Mess Around with Jim." Croce has no recollection of his father, who died when he was two years old, and has never performed his songs. A

Monica Lewinsky seemed to (and did) attract more viewers.

This summer was the summer of inflated expectation, but also one of artistic breakthroughs. Ask anyone who saw the movie "Pi" Or read the Michael O'Donoghue biography Mr. Mike. Or saw the Fleetwood Mac "Behind The Music" special on VH1.

Just kidding.

The ways and means of entertainment sometime lull us into a languishing stupor of excess. But that's what we want, right? We want our music loud, our beer cold, and our movies stupid.

So who are we to blame if we demand quality from our various nodes of entertainment? Well, as my nonexistent Aunt used to say, sitting on the porch, "Be careful of what you ask for. You may just get it."

local artists. Both the BGSU ceramics and glass departments will have displays in this area and will be selling their art.

Acts of Art, located by Kaufman's restaurant on Main, is a hands-on art exhibit that is meant for adults. If the hands-on experience isn't what you're looking for, the artists will demonstrate it themselves. Dorothy Linden, a local paper artist, will be in this area.

For the children there's the Youth Art Activities Area in front of the library. Dozens of arts and crafts activities, from straw weaving, tie dye, to face painting, will be available.

pop and some folk. In his growling bass, he speaks mainly of love lost or fear of losing loved ones. The 26-year-old recently released a blues-influenced CD, "Fit to Serve" on Ruf Records. He will perform at 9:45 p.m. on the main stage Saturday night.

However, Saturday night is not the end of the musical barrage. On Sunday, the music starts at noon and continues until five. One of the highlights of the day is Mustard's Retreat, a folk duo who got started as a bar's house band. They recently released their fifth CD, "The Wind and the Crickets...and the South Texas Moon and the Tune from an Old Country Waltz" on Palmetto Records.

The duo will perform twice on Sunday, at noon on the Youth Arts Stage and at two on stage two.

Ground game crucial to Falcons

□ The Falcons need to increase yardage on the ground in order to open the passing game for Bob Niemet.

The BG News

It's a simple philosophy for the Falcon offense — find a way to score touchdowns.

Last year, Bowling Green ranked last in the Mid-American Conference in scoring offense with a mere 24 TDs and 8 field goals for 191 points.

Right now, the Falcons are focused on their second game at Penn State.

Coach Gary Blackney believes the team is ready for Penn State. The Falcons are using their three non-conference games as stepping stones for MAC play.

The Falcons will build opportunities around a strong offensive line. Junior tackle Chad McCarthy will lead an experienced line.

Curl is back after a broken foot sidelined him for most of the season.

"We have a great group of linemen this year," Curl said. "But, we still have competition for starting positions available."

The offensive line must work with starting tailback Robbie Hollis. Last year, BG was the only team not to rush for 1,000 yards, averaging a league low of 2.3 rushing yards.

"We need to get the ball in the end zone through the ground and the air," Curl said. "Robbie Hollis is an excellent back, but we need to come together to open holes and find ways to score."

BG knows it can't afford to be a one-dimensional offense. Coach Gary Blackney believes the running game must be established to be successful.

Last year, Niemet completed 52 percent of his passes for 1,723 yards. He is injury prone and will need protection to survive the season.

One trouble area for the Falcons is the receiving core. This year, wide receiver Leon Weathersby will be a key player for Niemet.

Receivers, sophomore Matt Bunsey and freshman Kurt Gerling have little experience, will be needed to make big catches.

Penn State defense boasts strong leader

□ David Macklin leads a young Lion defense.

By PETE STELLA
The BG News

You could say that junior cornerback David Macklin is brimming with talent.

You could also say that Macklin is a vastly talented and versatile young man. In only his third year on the Penn State football team, he was an All-Big Ten candidate and deserved All-America consideration. He is also an important part of the Nittany

Commentary

Lions' special teams.

Macklin came to Penn State as a tailback but was quickly switched to defense. He has already recorded 39 career tackles in two seasons, including 32 solo tackles. He has emerged as the defensive leader of the team and his work ethic and desire to improve his game makes him a good role model for other Nittany Lions to look up to and follow.

In high school, Macklin was a star at football. He ran for over

2,000 yards and 28 touchdowns in his career at Menchville High School (Newport News, Va.). He also caught 20 passes for 200 yards and five scores and was a key return specialist for his team, with 62 returns for 900 yards and

Falcons face skilled teams

□ After Penn State,
BG faces star players
week after week.

By G. MICHAEL GRAHAM
The BG News

The Bowling Green football team may think the first two weeks of the season are tough but they will face lots of talented players week-in and week-out.

Two weeks after leaving Happy Valley, the Falcons open at home against the Central Florida Knights led by Heisman trophy candidate, senior quarterback Daunte Culpepper. In his career, Culpepper has completed 617-of-1,026 passes for 8,029 yards and 60 touchdowns.

A week later for Homecoming, Ohio and senior Kareem Wilson come to town. The option quarterback-turned-running back rushed for 834 yards and 12 touchdowns last year.

Following that, BG hits the road for two crucial Mid-American Conference games against Miami and Toledo.

Miami features senior defensive end JoJuan Armour. Last season, he had 24 tackles for a loss and ranked sixth in the conference with seven sacks for a total loss of 54 yards.

Leading the Toledo attack is senior quarterback Chris Wallace. Wallace completed 53.6 percent of his passes for 2,955 yards, 27 touchdowns and a 127.3 passing efficiency.

Then, the Falcons have three straight home games against Kent, Marshall and Akron before finishing with two road games at Western Michigan and Northern Illinois.

Kent is led by senior wide receiver Eugene Baker. Last season, Baker had 103 receptions for 1549 yards and 18 touchdowns.

Junior quarterback Chad Pennington leads the Marshall attack. The vaunted passer completed 253-of-428 passes for 3840 yards and 39 touchdowns.

Senior defensive back Andre McCray leads a talented Akron defense. As one of the games most ferocious hitters, McCray has five career forced fumbles.

For Western Michigan, junior quarterback Tim Lester hit 154-of-268 passes for 57.5 percent on 17 touchdowns and 2160 yards.

Sophomore Ivory Bryant leads a young Northern Illinois squad. He was runner-up for the MAC's Freshman-of-the-Year award.

Photo Provided

Last year Chad Pennington set an NCAA record with 39 touchdown passes. He set a Mid-American Conference passing record with 3,480 yards passing.

Photo Provided

Chris Wallace broke 10 Toledo records last year. He threw for 2,955 yards, including 27 touchdown passes. Wallace threw for 200+ yards in 10 of 12 Rocket games.

Speedy Weathersby a good catch

□ Starting kick returner Leon Weathersby is a valuable part of the team.

By PETE STELLA

The BG News

Leon Weathersby is a man of many responsibilities.

This season for the Falcons, he is a wide receiver and one of the top kickoff return men in the country. Last season, he split time at running back and in the secondary. Not bad for a guy who never played high school football.

Weathersby has come a long way since graduating from Hamilton High School in Los Angeles in 1993. He spent his freshman season at West Los Angeles College, where he returned kicks and played wide receiver. That was his first season of organized football.

"It has always been a dream of mine to play college football," Weathersby said.

He then made the trip to Woodline Hills, Calif., where he excelled as a running back, receiver and kick returner at Pierce College.

One must keep in mind that Weathersby was drafted in the 18th round of the 1993 major league baseball draft by the Kansas City Royals. He played with the Gulf Coast Royals (Rookie League) in 1993 and 1994 and with Spokane (Class A) in the Northwest Rookie League in 1995.

"I haven't given up on baseball," Weathersby said. "I'm living life right now day by day and I think of every day as a learning experience. If my heart turns back to baseball, I will pursue it again, but right now, I am concentrating on the (football) season."

Weathersby feels that in Saturday's loss to Missouri, the offense didn't get a chance to get going because they really only ran 37 plays.

"I feel that the first three non-conference games are more like stepping stones or scrimmages and a great learning experience," Weathersby said. "Missouri runs the option, Penn State plays power football and Central Florida does the run and shoot. Ohio plays the option well, Miami of Ohio runs the run and shoot and Toledo plays power football like Penn State. So we really see these games as a preview of what is to come in our MAC (Mid American Conference) competition."

Weathersby is a great all-around athlete with blazing speed. He benches 350 lbs., squats 490 lbs. and does 275 lbs. on the hang clean. He also says that his favorite pass route is the streak, which is when the receiver runs near the sideline towards the end zone. It is like "the bomb" from the old playground days.

"He's a good athlete. He's strong, he can block. He's my best blocker, he's aggressive, he's probably the fastest guy over there (receiving corps)," wide receivers coach Dino Dawson said. "I think if he would have had another year, he would be a really good receiver. He's kind of learning as he goes."

He was the third leading rusher on the team last year with 193 yards and also played some defense and ended with six tackles.

Photo Provided

If BG plans on beating Penn State, Leon Weathersby will have to play a huge role on offense and on special teams.

seven TDs.

On defense, he gained much notice with his 120 career tackles and 20 career interceptions. He ended up all conference on offense, defense and special teams, as well as being second-team all-state as a defender and a three-time all-district pick.

His high school career was also highlighted by accomplishments in basketball and track. In basketball, he was a four-year starter as a point guard and scored 1,000 career points. In track, he earned all-district honors in the 100 meters.

Macklin receives such a high level of praise from head coach Joe Paterno that some people see it as strange for a legendary coach to praise one player so much. Paterno speaks highly of Macklin's accomplishments in his first two years and expects even better his next two years.

"The only real dominant football player we have on defense is David Macklin," Paterno said.

Falcons prepared for tough Lion team

□ BG will be trying to stop Penn State coach Joe Paterno from earning his 300th victory.

By TOD McCLOSKEY

The BG News

If you think the Bowling Green football team is down after getting shutout by Missouri, think twice.

The Falcons (0-1 overall, 0-0 Mid-American Conference) are using their three non-conference games as practices in preparation for conference play. And for the second straight week, BG plays a national-caliber team - Penn State.

"There's no letdown," senior wide receiver Leon Weathersby said. "Missouri, Penn State and Central Florida are scrimmage games and are getting us ready to play in our conference."

The Nittany Lions (1-0) are coming off an impressive win over Southern Mississippi. Both USA Today coaches and AP polls have the Lions as the ninth-best team in the nation.

As well as national title hopes,

Penn State also has an added incentive to beat the Falcons Saturday at Happy Valley. Legendary Penn State coach Joe Paterno is going for his 300th win.

BG is well versed in century-mark wins for Paterno. The coach earned his 200th win against the Falcons in 1987. Paterno said he hopes his accomplishments don't overshadow what the team is trying to accomplish - to win the game.

And though Missouri battered the Falcons, Penn State remains cautious of the team.

"Now, you've got to be careful with Missouri," Paterno said. "They look strong and well organized, but you can't judge anything by one game."

BG is hoping these non-conference games will "season" younger players for the important MAC games. Some of the toughest battles for the Falcons Saturday will be on the line.

The Falcons are undersized, in comparison to the Penn State offensive and defensive lines. BG's offensive line averages around 290 pounds, while the Penn State short guard weighs 313.

Photo Provided

Senior fullback Adam Lige will be a key component of the Falcons running attack. Lige's ability to block for the tailback could spring a big run. Last year the Falcons used Lige as a receiver as well, catching passes out of the backfield. Lige is one of six seniors on the offense that will carry the load for the Falcons.

Falcons have need for speed

□ BG's switch to a 4-3 defense will help to defend the pass more.

The BG News

The Bowling Green defense has gone through a lot during the off season. The team is hoping to improve on last year's mediocre defensive performance.

BG finished sixth in total defense in the Mid-American Conference, giving up 397.9 yards a game. By comparison, all the MAC teams with winning records gave up fewer than BG did in total defense.

Defense wins championships. BG knows that and that is why the team switched to a 4-3 defensive formation.

The 4-3 will utilize more team speed. What does that mean? It means more pressure on the quarterback and a focus on stopping the pass.

"We'll see how it goes in practice," said sophomore linebacker Ty Stover. "I'll play wherever they need me, but everyone is working together on the 4-3."

The Falcons will use outside linebackers Khary Campbell and Gary Fisher to rush the passer and drop back for pass defense. Returning starter Joe O'Neill will be the inside linebacker, a key position in the 4-3.

Campbell and Fisher were named the Falcons most improved players in the spring, which is a sign of their high expectations for the fall.

Last year O'Neill ranked sixth in the MAC with 15 tackles for losses and posted 96 overall tackles.

The Falcons main concern comes with the pass. Last year, BG gave up a third-worst MAC 25 touchdowns through the air. And with the league passing more than it ever has, covering the pass is imperative.

The most important change in the secondary is at cornerback. Senior Junior Williams, last year's starting free safety, has moved to cornerback. On the other side of Williams, sophomore Traban Turner and junior Chauncey Turner will split time.

The move to put Williams at the corner has allowed second year freshman Chad Long to start at free safety.

The defensive co-captain of the team, Morty Bryce, will be the starting strong safety. Bryce started seven games last year, compiling 23 solo tackles.

The secondary is also expecting to be more aggressive this year. BG only had 3 interceptions last year. After a strong spring the attitude and confidence of the secondary is very high.

Williams on his own at corner

□ The three-year letter winner is starting a new position that will use more of his talents.

By TOD McCLOSKEY

The BG News

Junior Williams lives on an island where he is tested play after play.

And if Williams gives up a big play, he's got to shake it off and get ready for the next.

Williams matches up with the opponent's best receiver, play after play.

"That's why it's called the island," Williams said. "You've got to be tough. If you get beat on a play, you just have to lineup again, shake it off and go on."

This year is the first Williams is playing the strong side cornerback. For the past three years, Williams has played at the free and strong safety spots. Last year, Williams was third on the team in tackles with 85.

His aggressive attitude is perfect on play the cornerback position.

"You need to have some confidence to play the position," coach Gary Blackney said. "And there's no question that Junior has the confidence and skills to play the corner position."

He's considered by many to be the biggest hitter on the team.

"Junior is one of our most physically strong players on defense," Blackney said. "He's very aggressive on the field and has been an on-the-field leader for the team."

Williams is also happy with the move, which allows him to use his speed. But, Williams said he's happy that younger players like Chad Long can get experience at the free safety position.

Williams will be looking to earn his fourth letter this year. In only three years, the senior cornerback has earned three letters. But, when Williams started out here, things weren't so easy.

"I was redshirted my first four games back in '95," Williams said. "Now I'm a starter, so it's been a lot of hard work."

A native of Lansing, Mich., Williams played football at Waverly High School. His senior year, he had 1,157 yards rushing and averaged 6.1 yards a carry. But, the Falcons wanted to use Williams in the secondary.

His adjustment to college wasn't easy, but Williams believes the hard work and dedication is worth it.

"I use my emotions to get myself and the team motivated," Williams said. "If we have a bad play, I hear it from the fans and the coaches, but I just keep going and keep the team motivated."

Senior cornerback Junior Williams barks out signals to the defense. Last year Williams was third on the team in tackles with 85.

Missouri manhandles BG

□ BG loses its sixth season opening game in a row.

The BG News

COLUMBIA, Mo. - It was over before it started for Bowling Green Saturday night in Memorial Stadium.

On the first play of the year, BG freshman tailback Godfrey Lewis was stripped of the ball and linebacker Barry Odom of Missouri recovered on the Falcon 26-yard line.

The Tigers offense stalled, but Tim Geiger added a 27-yard field goal to put the team up 3-0. Missouri scored touchdowns on its next four possessions, en route to a 37-0 win. This is the sixth season-opening loss in a row for the Falcons.

Missouri senior quarterback Corby Jones was two steps ahead of the Falcon defense all game. Jones showed why he was the Big 12 quarterback of the year in 1997, throwing for 187 yards and two touchdowns.

"He's an unbelievable athlete," linebacker Joe O'Neill, the Falcons leading tackler, said. "He's a playmaker. He does it with his arms, he does it with his legs. The guy is just unstoppable at times."

Part of the Tigers success on both sides of the ball came from the trenches. Both Missouri offensive and defensive lines dominated their BG counterparts.

"I think their offensive line was one of the best we've played against," coach Gary Blackney said. "They're not a one-dimensional offensive football team."

The Falcons never found a way to stop Jones on the ground either. The Heisman hopeful had 59 yards rushing and two touchdowns. Tigers senior tailback Devin West averaged 7.8 yards a carry, running for 125 yards and two touchdowns.

The Tigers first touchdown, a 62-yard strike to Kent Layman, put Missouri up 9-0.

On the next series, BG ran the ball on three straight plays. Fullback Adam Lige picked up one yard, Lewis ran for three yards and quarterback Bob Niemet ran an option keep to the right side for no gain.

Missouri put the game out of reach on their next score. From the Tigers 29-yard line, Jones led an 8-play, 71-yard drive that ended with the Tiger quarterback running it in the endzone from six yards out. The touchdown put Missouri up 16-0 late in the first quarter.

The Falcon offense was nonexistent, producing only 56 yards for the entire game, which tied the BG record low.

"I looked up in the fourth quarter and we had 42 yards of total offense," senior tight end Tony Holcomb said. "I've never been quite so embarrassed."
